

kill Christian

Simplistic in plot and setting its premise immediately -Christian, a seventy-year-old emigrant, is informed by official summons that the man who murdered his mother (a murder Christian witnessed and did nothing to prevent) has come forward to confess to the crime, forty-five years after the act was committed- Constantine Sults third novel is the story of Christians journey to attend and return from the execution. With meticulous attention to minute detail both physical and psychological, KILL CHRISTIAN creates and impressionist portrait of life removed from intimate connection and of a man quietly tormented by the consequences of inaction.
