

The Girl from Kellers

SYNOPSIS: Set on the Saskatchewan prairie of Canada. A change was coming to the desolate landscape with the arrival of the railroad. In a few years, the wilderness would be covered with wheat, and noisy gasoline tractors would displace the plowmen's teams. Festing was thirty years of age and a railroad builder. His friend, Charnock, lived in a badly worked homestead barely meeting his expenses. A portrait of an Englishwoman hung on Charnock's wall but while she had promised to marry him, could he expect a gentle woman to cook, mend and wash his clothes, and struggle with chores that never end? Then Charnock is offered a position by the daughter of the aging owner of the Keller store and hotel. In fact, old man Keller has plans to force Charnock off his farm, then Charnock would need to marry Keller's daughter before he turned the store and hotel over to the couple.
