

Tranquillity Base and Other Stories

Twelve short stories whose citizens abide in Chicago, in the Orient, in Greece, in Twains Hannibal, but most often in the twitching center of paranoia, on the razor edge of unreality. A lawyer in suburbia itches to expose an infidelity to his knife-wielding wife; a veteran flashes back on the war in Southeast Asia while giant grasshoppers swim across his hospital room; an Oriental ad man nearly finds his gate to the Great Way. Delightful, horrifying tales filled with the sad irony of modern isolation, informed by a surreal vision and by precise, convincing knowledge of an eccentric world.
